ABSTRACT

Image data of various data formats stored in the storage of the MFP can be visually displayed on the display as an image after converting format of image data stored in the storage to a predetermined format by the data format

5   converter.